Remote participation format via Zoom

Conference Program

the \mathbb{R}^n -valued function \mathbf{f} is a solution of the system (1) if and only if \mathbf{f} is a solution of the system (2). The system (2) is called the variational system of (1) and is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

Let \mathbf{f} be a solution of the system (1) and let \mathbf{v} be a solution of the system (2). Then the function is also a solution of the system (1). This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

$$\mathbf{f} + \mathbf{v} \quad (3)$$

$$\mathbf{f} - \mathbf{v} \quad (4)$$

is also a solution of the system (1). This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

Let \mathbf{f} be a solution of the system (1) and let \mathbf{v} be a solution of the system (2). Then the function

$$c\mathbf{f} + \mathbf{v} \quad (5)$$

is also a solution of the system (1) for any constant c . This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

$$c\mathbf{f} - \mathbf{v} \quad (6)$$

is also a solution of the system (1) for any constant c . This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

$$c\mathbf{f} + \mathbf{v} + \mathbf{w} \quad (7)$$

is also a solution of the system (1) for any constant c and any solution \mathbf{w} of the system (1). This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

$$c\mathbf{f} - \mathbf{v} + \mathbf{w} \quad (8)$$

is also a solution of the system (1) for any constant c and any solution \mathbf{w} of the system (1). This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

$$c\mathbf{f} + \mathbf{v} + \mathbf{w} + \mathbf{u} \quad (9)$$

is also a solution of the system (1) for any constant c and any solutions \mathbf{w} and \mathbf{u} of the system (1). This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

$$c\mathbf{f} - \mathbf{v} + \mathbf{w} + \mathbf{u} \quad (10)$$

is also a solution of the system (1) for any constant c and any solutions \mathbf{w} and \mathbf{u} of the system (1). This is because the system (1) is a linear system of ordinary differential equations with constant coefficients.

DECEMBER 16th

WEDNESDAY

PLENARY SESSION

- 9:30 – 9:35 Vera V. Vishnyakova – Head of the School of International Regional Studies, Faculty of World Economy and International Affairs, HSE University; Andrey N. Karneev – Head of the School of Asian Studies, Faculty of World Economy and International Affairs, HSE University
- 9:30 – 9:35 Ivan V. Prostakov, Vice Rector for HSE’s international relations
- 9:35 – 9:40 Sergey A. Karaganov, Dean of the Faculty of World Economy and International Affairs, HSE University; Honorary Chairman of the Presidium of the Council on the Foreign and Defense Policy
- 9:40 – 9:45 Vitaly V. Naumkin, Academician of the Russian Academy of Sciences; President of the Institute of Oriental Studies, Russian Academy of Sciences; Head of the Joint Department of the Institute of Oriental Studies of the Russian Academy of Sciences at HSE University
- 9:45 – 9:50 Grygoriy S. Logvinov, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the Russian Federation; Professor of the Department of Applied International Analysis, Moscow State Institute of International Relations (Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Russian Federation)
- 9:50 – 9:55 LI Yongquan, President of the Chinese Association for Russian, East European & Central Asian Studies; Director of the Institute of International Relations, University of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences
- 9:55 – 10:10 Vladimir V. Maliavin, Professor of the School of International Regional Studies, Faculty of World Economy and International Affairs, HSE University
The Contours of the Prospective Eurasian Community

DECEMBER 16th

WEDNESDAY

10:10 – 10:25 Sergey I. Lunev, Professor of the Department of Oriental Studies, Moscow State Institute of International Relations (Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Russian Federation), Professor of the School of International Regional Studies, Faculty of World Economy and International Affairs, HSE University
Prospects for the Emergence of Megaregions in Asia

10:25 – 10:40 LI Yongquan, President of the Chinese Association for Russian, East European & Central Asian Studies; Director of the Institute of International Relations, University of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences
The Political Structure in Eurasia and Sino-U.S. Relations
